“Geodrill’s continued strength is more than the sum of our strong financial measures; each quarter that we are able to fortify our position further entrenches the Company not only in West Africa, but now extending beyond those borders into new geographical regions,” said Dave Harper, President and CEO of Geodrill. “With robust demand for premium exploration drilling services anticipated, a growing drill rig count, and expanding territories, Geodrill is primed to continue to deliver outsized performance and growth.”
